Protection and Advocacy for Beneficiaries of Social Security (PABSS): Division of Rehabilitation Services (DRS)

What is the Division of Rehabilitation Services (DRS)?

DRS is a state agency that is part of the Illinois Department of Human Services. DRS has a program called Vocational Rehabilitation or “VR” services, which can help you find a job or a training program or school to help you get ready to work in a specific area.

What does DRS do?

Here are a few examples of what DRS can help you do:

- Apply for jobs
- Identify what kind of job you want
- Get ready for a job interview
- Answer questions about the job interview process
- Pay for job training
- Pay for school that will prepare you for a job

How do I get help from DRS?

You need to apply for DRS services.

- Find the DRS office closest to you.
 - Use this link: <http://www.dhs.state.il.us/page.aspx?module=12>
 - Select “Rehabilitation Services” and enter what county you live in
 - Example: If you live in Chicago, select Cook County
 - Or call (877) 581-3690
 - Or complete an online application for service:
<https://wr.dhs.illinois.gov/wrpublic/wr/dynamic/referral.jsf>
- After contacting DRS, a counselor will contact you to set up an appointment to complete the application process. During this appointment, the counselor will discuss your goals, the nature of your disability, and the services that DRS can provide.

What do I need for my first DRS appointment?

- Proof of your disability (medical record, audiogram, etc.)
- If you get SSI/SSDI, bring a letter from the Social Security Administration saying how much you get in SSI/SSDI
- Think about your goals
 - What kind of school or training program do you want to go to?
 - What kind of do job you want to have?

What happens if DRS denies me services?

- DRS will send you a letter saying that it is denying your request for services.
- You can appeal DRS's decision.
 - Important: You only have 30 days from the date you get DRS's denial letter. It is important not to miss this deadline.
 - More information about your appeal rights:
<http://www.dhs.state.il.us/page.aspx?item=52318>
- You can contact the Client Assistance Program to ask for help.

What is the Client Assistance Program?

The Client Assistance Program (CAP) is a program at Equip for Equality. CAP helps DRS customers who are having problems with DRS.

CAP may be able to help you:

- Get the DRS services you need
- File an appeal

You can learn more about CAP at www.equipforequality.org/cap

What kind of problems should I call CAP at Equip for Equality about?

- Your counselor does not respond to your phone calls or emails
- Your counselor is not helping you with your goals
- You asked for help to go to school and your counselor said no
- You want help with filing an appeal because you do not agree with your counselor's decision
- You want a lawyer to help you with an appeal hearing with DRS so you can get the assistance you are asking for from DRS

Where can I learn more about DRS?

- DRS Website: <http://www.dhs.state.il.us/page.aspx?item=29764>
