

Your Child Can Get Transition Services To Help With Life After Graduation

We can help students with disabilities age 14½ to 22 get the transition planning and services they need at school in order to live independently, go on to further education or training, and work.

The Special Education Rights Clinic gives FREE LEGAL HELP to:

If you need help, contact:

- Develop a Transition Plan in the IEP based on your child's strengths, likes, and interests
- Get the school to conduct age-appropriate transition tests to plan the services and supports your child needs
- Make sure your child gets appropriate transition services
- Stop improper graduation and termination of your child's special education eligibility
- Advocate for your child's rights at IEP meetings and due process hearings (we go to IEP and other meetings in some cases)
